AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Your health depends upon the right answer. This matter of food should be given more attention by each individual. It is true the government has passed

BONANZA ANNUAL REVIEW

... OF ...

DELIRIUM OF AN OVERWORKED EDITOR
WHEN THE SPARK PLUG FAILED

J. Holman Buck, editor of the Western Nevada Miner, is catching up with his dates of issue. It is all owing to the vagaries of a gasoline engine that is used to operate his plant. This is the way the editor indulges in a delirium caused by the confusion of ideas and aggregation of grievances under the head "A Dream of Hell":

"We had a dream the other night," Editor Buck writes. "We had shuffled off this mortal coil and were knocking at the outer gates of hell for admission. One of Satan's inside guardians slipped the bolts and we were admitted. A guide met us and asked us if we were ready to be 'shown' and we told him, 'Sure, we're from Missouri.' We then started upon our journey. We noted a cleanliness around the furnaces and remarked upon the fact and was informed by the guide that he place had been modernized. That they no longer used the old fashion Baptist and Methodist brimstone fuel and red hot pitchforks had been discarded. Crude oil had been piped in and was being automatically fed to the furnace fires. Seeing there was no wood or coal to buy and everything running so smoothly we said, 'This ain't hell.' Entering a large ballroom where a grand orchestra was drilling away on 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine' and other popular tunes of the day, we saw a lot of swell chickens dancing the tango, the hesitation waltz, the kitchen sink, the jelly wobble and other rags. Seeing the gaieties we said, 'Surely this can't be hell.' Going farther we came to some vats in which a lot of delinquent subscribers, press agents with a lot of free readers for expostions and corn salves were being boiled, and gleefully watching these free publicity grafters bubble, we said, 'This is too good to be hell.' After wandering about and seeing many other pleasant sights our guide informed us that he would escort us to our future apartment and occupation. We were then taken away out into the midst of the deserts of hell, far away from supply points and shown a little room which we were to occupy. Upon entering the same we discovered a common every day gas engine. The piston was on the blink, the ignitor spring was busted and the spark plug was missing. We were informed that our future operation would be to keep the engine repaired and in operation. After looking the machine over we remarked, 'Well, this is hell!' Just then we awoke and realized that our gas engine was on the bum and the spark plug lost somewhere between Mina and San Francisco and every day a press tied up awaiting its arrival. And this is sure and unmistakably hell."

INJURED TOE AMPUTATED

Twenty years ago David C. Gardner, of Lund, accidentally cut his foot at the toe joints, severing a chord of one toe, which was drawn completely under the next one to it. This unnatural arrangement occasioned so much pain and soreness when walking that he became a cripple. Yesterday he came to Ely. Dr. Brock amputated the injured member. The operation was successful and entire relief is assured.—Ely Expositor.

AMUSEMENTS

NEVADA THEATER

A run of ten consecutive months at the Madison Square theater, New York, is the record of "A Bachelor's Honeymoon," and A. Mayo Bradfield is presenting it in a few smaller cities this season for the first time. When the play was first presented in New York the New York Sun said: "It is overwhelmingly funny." That it has lost none of the qualities which made it a success in New York is evident from the press notices in other cities. The story is that of a man who marries an actress, but wants to keep his marriage a secret. The play is said to be a cream of laughter from first to last. The company is made up of well known players, including Wilbur Higby and Rose Almsworth in the title roles, and if reports go for anything, it will be one of the best offerings at the Nevada theater. It is to be here next Friday. Prices: 50c, $1, $1.50. Seats on sale next Monday at Miners' drug store.—Adv.

BUTLER THEATER

At the Butler theater this evening a splendid program, consisting of five pictures at the usual price of admission, a great Vitaphone comedy, "The Honorable Algernon," featuring Hughie Mack and Josie Sadler, a Lubin split-reel, "Bunny Jim," and growing and gathering lingo. An Esanay two-reel feature, "The Pay as You Enter Man," an interesting holiday drama, featuring Richard C. Travers and Irene Hatfield, showing a man working for 20 years at the large salary of $20 a week. Of this sum he has managed to buy a tiny house in the suburbs and raise a healthy brood of children. Tomorrow a grand program for the children, "The Big Horn Massacre" in two reels.
